Capability Statement

Company Overview

The Family Learning Company is a next generation education software company addressing the most important problem in our economy—the epidemic of functional illiteracy—by leveraging the most powerful driver of economic development: family-based ambition.

Our software is built on research about learning by all age and cultural groups. The Family Learning Company team consists of dedicated and experienced professionals who are confident in our software to educate Pre-K through Adult level learners.

Our customer base consistently reports the effectiveness of family learning software. Additional information can be found on our website: www.familylearningcompany.com.
